Leviathan the Devil of Patriotiſm's Account of the Enemies to the Cauſe; with a Hint or two of his own particular Misfortunes.

To the AUTHOR of the WEEKLY REGISTER.

SIR,

HERE the Devil Leviathan renew'd the Converſation with the Scholar, in the following Manner.——'Twill not be right, Brother Nick, quoth he, to engage you in the Cauſe, without making you acquainted with your Enemies.——Enemies! replies the Scholar, in a Fright, I thought your Character was too popular to have any.——'Tis our Buſineſs to have it thought ſo, anſwered the Devil, but alas! I tremble to think of their Number and Strength; I have ſuffer'd by them ſo much, and ſo often, that I am in a Panique, every Time I turn my thoughts that Way.——Hah! what a Tremor is come over me all of a ſudden? Surely they are not come to torment us before our Time.——As I hope to be ſav'd, I ſhall not recover the Diſorder the very Apprehenſion has put me into, this half Hour.——You muſt know there is a certain formidable Power who is ſtil'd the Genius of Patriotiſm, that is my profeſs'd Antagoniſt; I have made bold with his Shape and Appearance to cheat Mankind, and he makes it his Buſineſs to expoſe me, and put me to open Shame.——As ſoon as ever I have drawn a Mob about me, made a ſuitable Harangue, and they begin to take all I ſay for Goſpel, this malicious Spirit only ſhews his Face on the other Side, and I loſe all my Votaries at once; he ſtrips me of my Diſguiſe, and I am hunted thro' the World as a Fury that would deſtroy its Peace.——Thus it was when I enter'd into Cataline at Rome, and ſet up to reform the Common-wealth.——The Moment I grew powerful, and was likely to ſucceed, my Enemy animated Cicero to oppoſe me, brought my Cauſe into Contempt, and ruined all my Deſigns at a Blow.——'Tis true my two aſſociates Belphegor and Aſtaroth, afterwards took the Advantage of the Diviſions among the Senators, and effected what was beyond my Power.——Theſe two, you are to underſtand, are the Court-Dæmons of Power and Pleaſure, and ſometimes are ſubſervient to me, ſometimes I to them; at preſent I am uppermoſt, and they are in Diſgrace.——The firſt made a bold Puſh in a late female Reign, but met with a Cicero as well as I to expoſe him, and has not been able to make a Figure ever ſince: The laſt has not been in Repute Time out of Mind, and is forc'd to play an Under-Game at preſent tho' without any Succeſs.——But beſide this Arch-Genius of Patriotiſm there are ſeveral inferior Agents under his Direction, who do me a World of Miſchief, and are continual Spies upon my Behaviour.——Theſe are a Kind of Enchanters, and we poor Devils are always liable to be puniſhed by them at Diſcretion; upon the erecting a Taliſman, and inſcribing it with certain magic Characters, I have been arreſted in a full Purſuit of Miſchief, and chain'd down to a Circle, that I have endeavour'd to diſcharge myſelf from in vain.——'Tis impoſſible to recollect how many Stratagems I have us'd to eſcape their Power, and execute the Buſineſs of my Station.——I have appear'd in the Shape of an Occaſional Writer, and reaſon'd moſt ſagaciouſly on publick Affairs, when one of theſe impertinent Magicians has detected my cloven Foot, and expos'd me in the Middle of my Audience.——I have enter'd myſelf into Parties, and become a Whig, a Tory, a Republican, as Occaſion offer'd, and, juſt as my Deſigns were ready to anſwer, I have found myſelf ſtruck dumb by their Exorciſms, and have been render'd unable to proceed any farther.——I once became a Perſian Spy, and conceal'd the Treaſon I intended, under the Characters and Events of that Nation.——But the Fraud was diſcover'd immediately, and I had much ado to ſave the Cauſe from utter Deſtruction.——I then chang'd myſelf into a Harlequin, and made my own Craft the Subject of my Entertainment, but in the Cataſtrophe I was laid by the Heels, and was forc'd to vary my Shape to a grave Hiſtorian to make my Eſcape.——In that Character I declar'd myſelf an Advocate for the Conſtitution, and a Friend to the Spirit of Liberty.——But unluckily mentioning the name of Leviathan at the End of my wiſe Remarks, the Enchanters ſeiz'd me in a Minute, and I have not been able to hold up my Head ever ſince.——There is one Walſingham that I charge you in particular to be aware of; his Incantations are moſt formidable, and if he once is provok'd, nothing leſs than Confuſion and Infamy attends them.——Beſide theſe Transformations, I have deſcended to be a Poſt-Boy, and blow the Horn of Rumour to alarm the Multitude to hurry about as a Grub-ſtreet Hawker, and bellow out Sedition by Retale, to ſtroll thro' the Streets with a Raree Shew at my Back, and diſplay the State of the Publick in Miniature.——But all my Artifices have prov'd abortive, the Magicians have diſcover'd me in all Shapes, and puniſh'd me in all.——'Tis impoſſible to tell how many Ways they found out to torture me.——I have been publickly made the Mark for Wit and Satire to level its Arrows at, and, if any ſingle Dart miſcarried, 'twas rather owing to the Unskilfulneſs of the Archer, than any Power remaining in me to avoid it.——I have had my Maſque of Patriotiſm taken off, and have been expos'd to the whole World in my original Deformity, that every Body might know me for the future.——I have had my Tongue faſten'd down with half a Sheet of Paper to the Pillory, and, when I was releas'd, complain'd of a Gag to excite the Compaſſion of the Spectators.——I have been ty'd to a Stake, and roaſted with my own Papers; this they ludicrouſly call'd Purgatory, but I thought it worſe than Hell, and would have gladly made the Exchange.——I have been preſs'd under the Weight of my own Writings, and, had not my Bookſeller cunningly ſold them for waſte Paper, I ſhould never have got my Liberty.——In ſhort never poor Devil has been us'd ſo ill; however, I am not to be diſcourag'd by Perſecution, and, with the Grace of G——, will proceed till they put me at the Helm inſtead of my grand Enemy, and acknowledge me publickly the Father of modern Patriots.——I ſee you are afraid of meeting with the ſame Fate; but never fear, you ſhall fight from behind my Shield, and carry on the Cauſe with Security.——We have Jaffiers and Pierres in abundance, that you muſt be acquainted with, the Choice, and Maſter-Spirits of the Globe, who are fit to refine even upon my Politicks, and correct the Miſtakes of all their Predeceſſors.——But firſt I muſt give you a Proſpect of the World thro' theſe political Glaſſes; one is to multiply Errors, and Miſfortunes; another to magnify Fears, Dangers, and Diſappointments; and the third, by Art Magick, to reflect Grievances, and Calamities that are not in Being.——Theſe will be particularly neceſſary for your own Uſe, and to influence as many more as you can perſuade to become Proſelytes to the Cauſe.——Believe me, without them you never will ſucceed; every Object, as it really is, will give the Lye to your Deſcription; but, with them, you'll have the Pleaſure of ſeeing every Falſhood and Miſrepreſentation take Place as you deſign it: Your Diſciples will be frantick enough to miſtake the Deceit for the Reality; nor once imagine the Phantoms that dance before them, are intirely owing to the Treachery of the Medium thro' which they appear.

Some Remarks on the Play of George Barnwell, the Dialogue on Beauty, and the Dedication of the laſt Volume of Tacitus to his Royal Highneſs the Prince of Wales.

ONE publick Paper lately ſet out with an avow'd Deſign of being ſevere on all Authors, but their own, and, in Conſequence, no Performance was publiſh'd, but they immediately attended it with a Libel to deſtroy its Reputation, and prevent its Sale; how far this agreed with the true Nature of Criticiſm, I have ſhew'd in ſome former Papers; how it deviated from Decency, Good-Nature, and Good-Manners, every Reader is as much a Judge as I.——However, the Writers of that Paper ſeem to be convinc'd themſelves of their Error, and, in ſome Meaſure, have laid aſide the Practice.——If they had never us'd it, 'twould have been more to their Reputation, than any Thing they have hitherto entertain'd the Town with.——The good-natur'd Side of the Queſtion they never made a Pretence to, and no Body expected they would be better than their Promiſe.——Be it then the Character of the Regiſter to be the Friend of Merit, and the Admirer of the Muſes; be it our Delight to diſtinguiſh the Genius of our Contemporaries, and become the Herald to their Praiſes.——I am perſuaded that proper Applauſe is as ſerviceable to the Cauſe of Writing, as the ſevereſt Criticiſm, and is abundantly a more generous Motive for Improvement, than the Fear of Satire, and Invective.——The Play of George Barnwell is given out for the Seventeenth Night, and, 'tis poſſible, may run the Remainder of the Seaſon.——I take this Opportunity to congratulate the Taſte of the Few in Town, for diſtinguiſhing ſo well, and the Author for deſerving ſo much of the Few, that know how to be pleas'd in the right Place.——'Tis certain no one had a more difficult Task to manage than he; his Tale was tragical, his Buſineſs to excite the Terror, and Pity natural to the Occaſion; and yet the Characters were ſo low, and familiar to Life, ſo apt to excite Ridicule and Contempt, that none but a maſterly Hand could have overcome the Prejudice.——Accordingly, in the Repreſentation, the Beginning of the firſt Act occaſioned a Sneer in the Audience, as if 'twas impoſſible they ſhould receive any delicate Pleaſure from ſuch an Entertainment; but, before the End of it, the Caſe was quite alter'd, and a moſt profound Silence argued the deepeſt Attention, and the ſincereſt Pleaſure imaginable.——This increas'd gradually, as the Plot advanc'd, and new Circumſtances of Guilt and Diſtreſs aggravated the Concern of the Spectators.——Barnwell's firſt Fault, and Repentance, his Maſter's generous Pity, and Forgiveneſs; his Relapſe, and the Horror that attended it; Millwood's Art, and Addreſs, in prevailing with him to undertake the Murther of his Uncle; the ſtrong Convulſions of his Mind, and the beautiful Deportment of his dying Uncle on that Occaſion; his Deſpair that ſucceeded it, and his being given up to Juſtice by the very Creature he doated on, and, for whoſe Sake, he had ruin'd himſelf; her ſullen and confirm'd Wickedneſs, his dying Behaviour; his Friend's Conſtancy and Compaſſion; his Patron's Goodneſs, and the beautiful Maria's unhappy Paſſion are ſuch ſtrong dramatic Circumſtances, and ſo finely painted, that 'tis impoſſible not to feel the full Force of them, both in the Reading, and Repreſentation.——In ſhort, 'tis writing to the Heart, and I believe there was hardly a Spectator there that did not witneſs his Approbation by his Tears.——It has been objected to this Play that the Characters were too low for the Stage.——I anſwer, that 'tis Lowneſs of Action, and not Lowneſs of Character, that is not to be allow'd there; the Circumſtances, I have mention'd, are all of them of the utmoſt Importance, and riſe as high in the Action, as any we ſhall meet with in Stories of more Pomp and Oſtentation.——'Tis a Tragedy of a new Kind, it muſt be own'd; but while it pleaſes in ſo juſt and reaſonable a Manner, 'tis to be preſum'd, the Novelty will hardly be thought an Objection.——Let us add one Thought more, 'tis the fineſt Leſſon to the Youth of this Age, that they can poſſibly read, and what is calculated for their Uſe, is made their Entertainment.——I wiſh every other Author may diſcharge his Debt to Society as well, and then one may venture to ſay he has neither liv'd, nor wrote in vain.

I will not confine this publick Acknowledgment of the Merit of Authors to poetical Writings only; the Author of the Dialogue on Beauty has deſerv'd greatly of the Age, for reviving that Manner of Writing which ſucceeded ſo well among the Ancients, and is capable of ſuch Force, ſuch Delicacy, and Spirit; I profeſs I am pleas'd that, after the Example of Cato, he has made a Lady his Companion in this philoſophical Converſation: The Sex will be oblig'd to him for his juſt Regard to their Refinement in Reaſoning, and Argument, and we ſhall benefit by the Politeneſs of his Manner. 'Tis full Conviction that Elegancy and Learning are not inconſiſtent, and that a Man may reaſon in the beſt-bred Company without the Imputation of Pedantry or Affectation.——There is a peculiar Elegancy in making Beauty the Subject of his Dialogue with a Lady, and I think it might have been preſerv'd with as much Propriety in the Dedication.——Dedications indeed are ſeldom judg'd properly, and ſeldomer executed with any Manner of Fidelity or Addreſs.——I have formerly promis'd to take Notice of the firſt that excell'd in either; and Mr. GORDON's to his Royal Highneſs is abundantly remarkable for both: There is a Freedom, and a Manlineſs in it that is truly worthy of the Volume 'tis annex'd to, and the great Mr. TRENCHARD's Friend.——There is a Spirit in it that is worthy of a Briton; brave, free, knowing he is ſo, and reſolv'd to continue ſo: 'Tis a Model for the Writers of the Age to copy after, and the keeneſt Satire upon Flattery and Adulation.——'Tis ſuch as the late Lord Shaftsbury himſelf would have applauded, and I think his Approbation would have been the higheſt Compliment.

The Letters from Porto Bello were dated the 13th of June, N. S. in which 'tis written, that the Fair, contrary to Expectation, had prov'd but very indifferent especially in the Sale of such Goods as the South-Sea Company's Ship Prince William's Cargo interfered with, which was owing chiefly to the Spaniards Notion of her having a very great Quantity.

Such a Curiosity in Nature is brought over from Greenland, by one of the South-Sea Company's Ships, as nobody remembers to have seen the like in England: It is called a Sea-Lyon, and very much resembles a Lyon, and was taken about six Weeks ago on the Ice, as it was sucking its Dam, whom they killed with a Harpoon, on Account of its Fierceness and Largeness, being as big as the largest Ox, and had Teeth like Ivory, four of them 18 or 20 Inches long, and the young one, which is as big as a middling Dog, but has no Teeth, is very lively and tame, and feeds upon Liver and raw Flesh.

Philadelphia, June 24. Last Monday we received the following melancholy Account of the Loss of the Sloop Maryland, of Boston, Edward Sunderland Master, viz. On Monday the 15th of this Instant June, I sailed from Philadelphia, in the Sloop Maryland, of Boston; on Tuesday Night about Ten o'Clock I took my Departure from Cape Henlopen, steering my Course Eastward, in order to make the best of my Way to Newfoundland. Wednesday before Noon I had but little Wind, and calm; about Two o'Clock in the Afternoon, the Wind sprung up Southerly, and by Evening blew a fresh Breeze looking Dirty-like, we handed some small Sails, but still kept on my Course, E. by N. It being the Mate's Watch to bring Twelve o'Clock, my Watch turn'd in, but I stay'd up till about Ten o'Clock, and then laid down but could not sleep, and perceiving it to lighten much and the Wind failing, I went upon Deck again, and found the Weather very flattering, and constant Lightning and Thunder tho' at a Distance. I order'd the People to lower the Main-sail, then having only the Jib cut, the Mate and myself being on the Quarter-Deck, and one Man forward near the Mast, to stand by the Jib Halliard, the Candle went out in the Binnicle, I desired the Mate to go down and strike a Light; in the mean Time, there came a prodigious Clap of Thunder and Lightning which struck down the Man forward, burnt all the Cloaths off his Back, and burnt him miserably, from the Middle of his Back to one of his Ancles, and also one of his Arms. The Thunder wakened the People below, who immediately came upon Deck, and we brought the wounded Man aft, and put him into his Cabbin. Perceiving the Mast to be splinter'd, I ordered the Pump to be try'd, and taking Candle and Lanthorn, went forward and found the Mast splinter'd in two Places, and the Coast of the Mast about the Partners torn to Pieces; thinking now of no further Damage, I demanded of the Man at the Pump if she suck'd, who answer'd no; upon which going to the Side, I found the Vessel swam deeper than usual, and immediately cry'd out, The Lord have Mercy upon us, the Vessel is sinking: This put us into the utmost Consternation; the Mate call'd to cut the Lashing of the Boat, which I, finding a Hatchet, did accordingly; we had upon Deck a small Cask of Water which we put into the Boat, we also got up nine or ten Pieces of Pork, and a Bag of Bread, which we got into the Boat, as also the wounded Man; the Water being by this Time to a Man's Middle in the Steerage, we got the Runners and Tackles with all Speed, and hoisted out the Boat, which we had scarcely done, before the Sloop turn'd on her Side, laying with her Larboard Gunnel out of Water: We left her the next Morning by Day-light (having no Hopes of saving any Thing out of her) being then about E. by N. 30 Leagues from Cape Henlopen, trusting ourselves to the Providence of God. We were two Days and two Nights before we made the Land, and then came in below Indian River, about 15 Leagues to the Southward of the above Cape, and Sabbath-Day Night we got to the Port of Philadelphia. The wounded Man continues very ill.

They write from Dorsetshire, that a Footman belonging to —— Drake, Esq; at Charborough near Blandford in the said County, gave himself mightily to study and read in Herbage Books; and finding some Herb was mentioned to be extraordinary beneficial for the Head-Ach, he went into a Wood adjoining to the said Seat and gather'd some, believing they were the same as described in the said Book, and drank them in the Nature of Tea plentifully, which flung him into such a Trance, that he slept for 17 Days and never spoke but once during the whole Time; several able Physicians in the Country have been to view the Herbs, but cannot give any particular Account of them, by Reason of their being wet: he was still dozing when this Account came from the Country.

Yesterday several eminent Master Workmen, at the Desire of the Ground-Landlords, began to survey the great Sewer lately built from Scotland-Yard to Cleveland-Court, St. James's, when they found several Defects therein, which were the Occasion of its so frequently falling in; to remedy which, it is believ'd, they will be forc'd to break up great Part thereof.

The same Day the Centinel of the third Regiment of Guards encamp'd at Hampton-Court, who robb'd a poor Armenian Priest of 3s. 6d. was drumm'd out of the said Regiment with a Halter about his Neck, after having received 300 Lashes from the Battallion.

On Monday last the Lady of Henry Kelsall, Esq; Member of Parliament for St. Michael's in Cornwall, was safely deliver'd of a Daughter at Mr. Kelsall's House in Scotland-Yard, Whitehall.

Yesterday about Noon, a Fire broke out at a Gingerbread Baker's in Shear-Lane, which very much alarmed the Neighbourhood; but, by timely Assistance, it was extinguished without doing much Damage.

Mr. Longworth, who was stabbed in the Artillery-Ground on Tuesday last, by a Centinel, was alive Yesterday, but in a dangerous Condition, his Wound bleeding inwardly. The Person who stabbed him, is an Apprentice in Red-Cross-street, of a good Character, and march'd for his Master. When the Arms were grounded in the Artillery-Ground, he was placed Centinel over them, and then Mr. Longworth insulted and treated him in a very rough Manner, and unhappily provoked the young Man so far as to stab him with his Bayonet. He was Yesterday committed to Newgate.

Cambridge, August 6. The following Question was this Day put, and agreed to in Convocation. Whereas Philip Nichols, Doctor of Law, late Fellow of Trinity-Hall, has been guilty of stealing many valuable Books out of St. John's College Library, and elsewhere, to the great Scandal and Dishonour of this University; Does it please you, that the said Philip Nichols, for his infamous Practices be deprived, and for ever reputed unworthy of all Rights and Privileges, Honour and Degrees conferr'd upon him in our University.

Marriage. Yesterday Paulet St. John of Forley in the County of Southampton, Esq; was married to Mrs. Elizabeth Rushout, sole Daughter and Heiress of the late Sir James Rushout, Bart.

Deaths. On Tuesday last died at her House in Park-street, Westminster, the Lady Lloyd, Mother to Sir Nathaniel Lloyd.——Last Saturday Night John Ward, Esq; who the last Year was High Sheriff for the County of Northampton, died at his Seat call'd Guilsborough in the same County.——Last Friday died at his Seat at Farnham in Kent, Robert Wortley, Esq; one of his Majesty's Justices of the Peace for the said County.——Yesterday died at his Lodging in Pall-Mall, John Brook, Esq; a young Gentleman of a plentiful Fortune.——The same Day died at his House in Broad-street, Mr. Bull, an eminent Assurance-Broker of this City.——Gloucester, August 14. This Week died Major Kingscut, at his Seat at Kingscut in this County.

FRIDAY, August 20.

Yesterday Morning the Lady of Sir Archer Croft, Bart. was safely delivered of a Son, at his House in Kensington-square.

The Directors of the East-India Company lately begun a Subscription for the Sufferers by the late Fires at Tiverton, Blandford and Ramsey, and altho' the same be not yet finished, yet they have remitted 500l. and five Lottery-Tickets to Tiverton, and the like to Blandford: They have not yet determined what Sum to allot Ramsey, it not appearing to bear any Manner of Proportion in its Loss with the other Towns.

On Friday last three of the Malefactors that received Sentence of Death at the Assizes at Chelmsford were executed there, one of whom walk'd from the Goal to Prayers that Morning in a Shroud, and in like Manner from the Church to the Gallows.

Yesterday died the young Sea Lioness, which was lately brought to Town here by one of the South-Sea Ships from Greenland.

Robberies, &c. On Monday Night, about Nine o'Clock, the Stage Coach belonging to Stoke-Newington, was, in its Return home from London, set upon near that Town, and robb'd by one Highwayman, who took from the Passengers, a Watch and all their Money, to the Value of nine or ten Pounds.——On Wednesday Night three Street-Robbers were taken at a Publick House, by a Gentleman, whom they had robbed two Nights before in St. George's-fields; and on meeting them at the Bridge Foot, he knew one of them perfectly well, and followed them to the House were they were taken; and being carried before a Magistrate, were committed to the New Goal.——Letters from Winslow in Bucks advise, that a Grazier who lives in Warwickshire, was robb'd the 10th Instant by two Highwaymen of about 200l. who cut and abus'd him in a barbarous Manner. One of the same Rogues robb'd the Watlington Post-Boy of 7s. and his Bag of Letters.

Deaths. The Hon. James Hayes, Esq; who married a Sister of the Earl of Ashburnham, died lately in France.—— On Monday last died at Windsor, the Governor of the poor Knights there.——Yesterday Morning died in James-street by Bedford-Row, Mrs. Barnardiston, Wife of John Barnardiston, Esq; an eminent Turkey Merchant.——The same Day died Mr. Boheme, an eminent Merchant in Red-Lyon-Court, Watling-street.

Shipping. The Letters from Malaga, dated the 7th Inst. N. S. which came by Yesterday's French Mail, mention the Conde Clavijo being arrived there from Cadiz, in his Way to Barcelona, with two Men of War, of 60 Guns each, having brought in with him a Ship under Imperial Colours, laden with Cocoa, Sugar, and Tobacco, whose People declared, that they were bound from Lisbon to Genoa; but the Conde, who had formerly been Commander of a Guarda Costa in the West-Indies, pretended to find out that her Cargo was consigned to Almeria. He had taken a Dutch Ship on much the same Pretence, but she had found Means to get away in the Night. The Preparations for the Expedition to Italy were continued in the Ports of Spain; the single-deck Vessels at Barcelona for carrying Batavia's Regiment of Dragoons were got ready; and Orders had arrived at Alicant for impressing Boat Men along the Coast, to man the Spanish Navy, of whom nine Waggon Loads were sent from Alicant the 7th Inst. N. S. for Carthagena.

To the AUTHOR of the WEEKLY REGISTER.

SIR,

I Have now received an Estimate of the Buildings and Goods consumed by the late dreadful Fire which happened at Ramsey, in the County of Huntingdon, on Friday the 21st of May last, as delivered in upon Oath at a general Quarter Sessions, held for the said County in July last.

The Loss and Damage done to seventy one Dwelling-Houses, and Out-Houses thereunto belonging, as estimated by experienc'd Workmen upon Oath.	8736	8	1
Loss of Goods, as sworn to by the respective Sufferers.	5108	5	10
	13844	13	11
Of this there hath been made good by Insurances	2187	1
So that the neat Loss is	11657	12	11

The Particulars of the Estimate being too long for your Paper, shall be left at the London-Assurance Coffee-House, in Birchin-Lane, on Monday next, for the Perusal of all who desire it. I have only to add, that this poor Town was greatly impoverished before their Calamity by the contrary Element, their Crops of Corn and Seed, and their Cattle, having been destroyed by the overflowing of their low Lands, which have lain under Water for about three Years last past; so that they are now in general a very miserable People, and will be more so as the Winter comes on.

I am, Sir, Your very humble Servant, EDM. OVERALL.

Extract of the Treaty concluded at Vienna the 22*d of* July 1731, between the Emperor, the King of Great Britain, and the King of Spain.

TO prevent the Evils which might result from the Opposition to the Change of Swiss Garrisons into Spanish Garrisons, the Emperor and the King of Great Britain agreed upon the III. Article of the Treaty signed at Vienna the 16th of March last, and upon the two Declarations in Consequence thereof, which relate to the Engagements entered into by the IX. X. XI. and XII. Articles of the Treaty of Seville. The King of Spain perceiving, by the Communication which has been made to him of the III. Article of the Treaty of Vienna, and of the Declarations in Consequence thereof, that his Desire to secure more and more to Don Carlos the eventual Succession of the States of Tuscany, Parma, and Placentia, and the Engagements entered into between him and the King of Great Britain, were satisfied; his Catholick Majesty would not be wanting on his Part in any Thing that might secure more and more the common Tranquillity. To this End, their Imperial, Britannick and Catholick Majesties gave their full Powers, &c.

Article I. His Catholick Majesty having well examined the III. Article of the Treaty of the 16th of March 1731, and the two Declarations in Consequence thereof, has declared that he entirely acquiesces therewith: For this End, his Catholick Majesty has declared, that the Treaties of Quadruple Alliance and that of the 7th of June 1725, between Spain, the Emperor, and the Empire, are hereby renewed and confirmed, except the Alterations made in the first by the III. Article of the Treaty of the 16th of March last, and the two Declarations in Consequence thereof: His Catholick Majesty promises, for him and his Heirs, to perform every Thing which has been regulated in the said Treaties, and in the eventual Investiture of the 9th of December 1723, with relation to the Successors of Tuscany, Parma, and Placentia.

II. Their Imperial and Britannick Majesties engage to the Catholick King, to stand by the Dispositions in the III. Article of the new Treaty of Vienna, and the Declarations consequent thereto, in Favour of the Infant and the Queen of Spain. The Emperor and the Empire accept the Renewing of the Peace of the 7th of June 1725, and promise and oblige themselves reciprocally to fulfil the Engagements which those Acts lay them under.

III. Whatsoever has been hitherto resolved upon, by the mutual and irrevocable Consent of the contracting Parties, shall serve as a Rule, either with Regard to the Introduction of the Spanish Garrisons, or to the putting the Infant Don Carlos in Possession of the Duchies of Parma and Placentia; upon Condition that the said Infant, or his Successor, be put in the said Possession upon the Foot settled by the Letters of eventual Investiture of the 9th of December 1723.

IV. The contracting Parties oblige themselves, as soon as this Treaty is signed, to use their Efforts to prevail with the Great Duke to consent to the Introduction of the Garrisons, and to every Thing that has been regulated by the Treaties, Conventions and Declarations above-mentioned, in Favour of the Male Issue of the Queen of Spain; upon Condition, nevertheless, that in case of the Great Duke's Consent, all that has been agreed, as above, shall not take Place till after the Exchange of the Ratifications.

V. The three contracting Parties declare, that having nothing more at Heart, than to see the Great Duke consent to all the Measures taken by the Treaties above-mentioned, as well for his Dignity and Tranquillity, as for that of his Subjects, and the Security of his Dominions, do promise and oblige themselves to accomplish all the said Dispositions.

VI. The contracting Parties have judged it necessary for the publick Tranquillity, to invite the Great Duke, in the most obliging Manner, to accede to the present Treaty.

VII. The present Treaty shall be ratify'd by the three contracting Parties within the Space of two Months, to be computed from the Day of Signing; and the Ratifications shall be exchanged at Vienna.

Separate and Secret Article.

THough Mention is made in the Beginning of this Treaty, only of the Engagements formerly entered into by the Kings of Great Britain and Spain, concerning the Introduction of Spanish Garrisons, it has nevertheless been agreed between the Parties that made this present Treaty, that with Respect to the other Engagements attributed to the Emperor separately, and annexed to the present Article, the Tenour of the III. Article of the Treaty of the 16th of March last, and of the two Declarations in Consequence thereof, shall take Place, as if that secret Part of the Engagement were inserted Word for Word in the Beginning of this Treaty.

Secret Part of the Engagements between their Britannick and Catholick Majesties, in relation to the Spanish Garrisons.

THEY are the two first Separate and Secret Articles of the Treaty of Seville, about the Conditions of the Abode of the Spanish Troops in Tuscany and Parma; namely, the Oath that they are actually to take for the Security and Delivery of the Places; and the Manner that shall be settled, that the Rights of the Infant may no Ways be prejudiced: That in the Places the Troops of the Possessors shall be two Thirds less than those of his Catholick Majesty: That those that die or desert may be freely replaced: And that in default of obtaining the said Diſpoſitions, the Contractors ſhall cauſe the ſame to be executed by Force, his Catholick Majeſty obliging himſelf to pay and maintain the ſaid Troops.

Another Separate and Secret Article.

IF after the two Months agreed upon to require the Great Duke's Conſent to all the Diſpoſitions abovementioned, the obtaining it ſhould ſtill ſeem doubtful, his Imperial Majeſty will no Ways oppoſe the full and entire Effectuation of all the Engagements entered into between their Britannick and Catholick Majeſties, above recited in the Secret and Separate Article, and exhibited to the Emperor, and explained by the Declaration between England and Spain concerning the ſaid Spaniſh Garriſons.
